Tim Gallogly

Timothy P. Gallogly was born and raised in Rhode Island, and comes from a large and politically active family (his uncle Ed Gallogly was Senate Majority Leader, Lt. Governor, US Attorney, and Chief Judge of Rhode Island's Family Court; his uncle Ray was a long-time State Representative and later the State's Jury Commissioner). He graduated from LaSalle Academy in Providence, a prominent Christian Brothers school that has produced countless RI politicians (two United States Senators, Reed of Rhode Island and Toomey of Pennsylvania, are graduates of LaSalle).

He stayed in Rhode Island to attend college at Brown University in Providence, and then went to law school at the University of Connecticut. Tim graduated cum laude from law school and was Notes and Comments Editor for the school's International Law Review. After law school, he returned to Rhode Island and clerked for a Rhode Island Supreme Court Justice. He then began a private practice career in a mid-sized Providence firm founded by a former Mayor of Providence and Governor of Rhode Island. The firm also employed a former Rhode Island Attorney General. The firm had a very active lobbying practice, working for national entities (Procter and Gamble and Monsanto) and state entities (liquor wholesalers and a major health insurer).

Tim left the lobbying firm to become Vice President and Associate General Counsel of The Holmes Group and later Jarden Corporation. In 2007, he became General Counsel and head of Human Resources for a Rhode Island based company, The Colibri Group. In 2011, he formed Izzo and Gallogly, with offices in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Tim can be reached at (401) 965-1265, or tgallogly@izzogallogly.com.

Tim Shestek

Tim Shestek is Senior Director, State Affairs for the American Chemistry Council (ACC), the major trade association representing the U.S. chemical and plastics industry. In this capacity, he is responsible for developing and implementing ACC's lobbying and government affairs efforts in 12 western states; analyzing legislation; advocating policy before legislative bodies and regulatory agencies; developing the industry's legislative and political grassroots programs; and serving as media spokesperson. Over the years, he has led ACC advocacy efforts on a number of state legislative issues including chemical management programs, bio-monitoring, recycling and solid waste, critical infrastructure security and energy efficiency building codes.

Prior to joining ACC, Tim began his government affairs career in 1994 with the American Plastics Council (APC) and also served as Legislative Assistant to California Assembly Member Paula L. Boland (R-Granada Hills) and California State Senator Frank Hill (R-Whittier).

Tim holds a bachelor's degree in Government from Sacramento State University and graduated from the University of California, Davis' specialized program in public relations.

He resides in Folsom, California with his wife Michelle and their 15-year old son Andrew.

David Baker

David H. Baker has been practicing law in Washington, D.C. for over thirty-five years, focusing on the area of safety law. He regularly represents clients before the Consumer Product Safety Commission and the Department of Transportation. His clients include national trade associations, Fortune 500 corporations and privately held companies. Representative trade association clients include the Lighter Association, the Plastic Shipping Container Institute, the Tobacco Industry Testing Laboratory and the Writing Instrument Manufacturers Association. Terry Iker

Terry Iker has worked in the fields of Quality Management and Quality Engineering for the past 35 years at various manufacturing companies in Canada including Allis Chalmers, Bombardier, Unilever and Bausch and Lomb. In 1993, Terry embarked on his career in rigid plastics packaging by joining Ropak Corporation in Burlington, Ontario. Ropak transferred Terry to their corporate office in California in 1998 to assume the position of Corporate Quality Assurance Manager where he also transitioned into Technical Services. In 2007, Terry relocated to Chicago. With Bway's acquisition of Ropak in 2013 he is currently holding the position of Manager, Quality Assurance and Technical Services with focus on food product safety, administering HazMat disciplines and testing, qualification of raw materials including resins, training and regional quality.

Early in his career, Terry received his CQE and CQA accreditations through the American Society for Quality Control and Ryerson Institute of Technology in Toronto. He has been active with the Plastic Shipping Container Institute for the past 12 years, most recently serving as co-chair of the Technical Committee. Through much of his adult life in Canada and the early years in the United States, Terry was actively involved in coaching hockey up to the junior level and was an instructor in the National Coaches Certification Program.

Terry can be reached at 847-709-808 or terry.iker@bwaycorp.com.
